BACKGROUND

One of the most worrying aspects of the European education systems is the early school leaving rates at the compulsory education levels which affects in particular pupils with migrant or disadvantaged socio-economic backgrounds. According to EUROSTAT data, 37.8% of students with migrant background leave school prematurely with serious consequences in terms of unemployment and social exclusion.

We live in a changing society, in which the migratory processes are the order of the day. These processes can lead to harmful situations, especially for those young people who must complete compulsory education and end up leaving for different reasons (language, social exclusion, low academic performance...).

Four years ago, a group of European universities and NGOs, aware of the challenge of valorizing intercultural teaching and learning at school as a means to address the problem, developed the project European Intercultural Project Mentoring tools to support migrant integration at school (INTO), where they produced a set of intercultural mentoring tools to support the integration of pupils with migrant background at school through the application of the peer mentoring methodology (more information: http://www.interculturalmentoring.eu/en).

Starting from the INTO project, the Evaluation Environment for fostering intercultural mentoring tools and practices at school (E-EVALINTO) pursues now a dual objective:

- Promoting peer mentoring actions aimed at reducing both the early school leaving of the migrant student population at compulsory secondary school level and the recognition of interculturality itself as part of an active and responsible education for enhancing a European citizenship.
- Developing an ICT framework to develop, manage and assess activities for addressing the needs of pupils with migrant background at risk of early school leaving and for promoting the positive impact of intercultural environments at school, with particular attention to decision-making as regard to policies and practices.
JUSTIFICATION

As starting point the E-EVALINTO consortium considers that, in order to obtain a multi-perspective picture of the context, it is crucial to identify the “intercultural profile” of an entire school instead of taking isolated assessments oriented to single individuals. In order to reach this objective they have designed a survey to be applied in each pilot school, which has joined the project. Four target groups inside the school have been involved, and the survey has been applied by questionnaires or semi-structured interviews depending on the target group to be addressed. This survey aims to analyse the underlying problems that the day-to-day schools live in relation to the matter at hand.

The semi-structured survey is addressed to the following actors in the school context:

- Management and counsellors [Q-MG&CO]
- Teachers [Q-TEACH]
- Parents or legal guardians [I-PAR]
- Pupils (mentors and mentees) [I-STU]

The purpose of choosing these four groups of actors is to cover the diversity of visions present in an educational community.

With this breadth of analysis, it is expected to know the needs of the pilot schools and then to develop appropriate tools for contributing to deal with the real problems detected in each school context, thus facilitating the inclusion of all members of the community and, as far as possible, contributing to reduce the rate of early dropout among pupils with migrant background.

The individuals selected in each group must represent the diversity and the set of opinions on the phenomenon that we study in their respective schools.
GUIDELINES

- We suggest the finding and selection of the pilot school according to these characteristics:
  - Compulsory Secondary School.
  - Existence of a significant percentage of pupils with migrant background.
  - Existence of a significant percentage of early school leaving cases.

- The different groups of participants should be selected as follow:
  - Management team and counsellors (2 persons): with at least one full academic year spent in that school.
  - Teachers (6 teachers): experienced in working with foreign students.
  - Families (about 15 to 20 parents): both immigrant families and families of the country of origin (so parents of potential mentors and mentees). It is advisable that the sample be, as far as possible, statistically representative of the pupils school population.
  - Pupils (about 15 to 20 students): attending a compulsory secondary school level.

- The study consists of three phases:
  - Phase 1 (School identification + First round):
    - To identify the pilot school and to fill in the “Context overview” table.
    - To select the participants.
    - To collect the informed consent forms signed (if needed)
    - To implement the survey (management team and counsellors, teachers, parents and pupils).
    - To process the collected data (preparation of a report with all the answers, diagrams...).
    - To analyse the collected data both by target groups and at a global level by comparing the information collected from the 4 groups of participants.
    - To prepare a final report of the Phase 1 results
  - Phase 2: (Evaluation + Second round + Analysis of results)
    - To identify the critical points observed in the Phase1 survey.
    - To design a closed questionnaire. In each context, a specific closed questionnaire has to be developed, based on the results obtained in Phase 1 and it will be proposed to the same actors (questionnaires/interviews will be defined according to the results of the Phase 1).
To implement the second round of questionnaires/interviews by groups of participants (management team and counsellors, teachers, parents and pupils).

- To process and analyse the collected data.
- To prepare a final report of the Phase 2 results

Phase 3 (optional):

- To create a discussion group with teachers and the management team (depending on the families and the way they have been involved, it could be considered to include them in the discussion group) to talk about the critical point identified in the Phase 2 report.
- To prepare a final from each pilot school, analysing the responses.
- To carry out a joint analysis of the pilot schools and to prepare final global report of this experience.

1 The members of the discussion groups should be the same as those who participated in the previous phases. The purpose of the discussion group is to give voice to those actors who need to clarify some answers. This phase has a more informal character, seeks personal opinion and possible solutions that can give these groups of actors. During the discussion groups, it is recommended to request ideas on possible solutions to the problems detected.
