Outline

- Placements status
- Evaluating placements
- Placements assessment by participants
- Further tasks

Semester of Code. 1st round

- Some participation data
 - 12 universities
 - 64 companies
 - 237 placement proposals

- 12 proposals submitted by students, 7 active projects
 - 4 open
 - 1 preselected
 - 7 active (accepted)

Semester of Code. 2nd round

- Some participation data
 - 13 universities
 - 67 companies
 - 291 placement proposals
- 24 proposals submitted by students, 10 active projects
 - 1 open
 - 7 published
 - 10 accepted (active)
 - 2 rejected
 - 4 archived

Semester of Code: total

- 13 participant universities (not all of them provide students to SoC)
- 67 participant companies/foundations/projects
- ~ 300 placements proposals

Semester of Code: total

- 36 proposals submitted by students
- 17 active projects (total placements performed)
 - 75 initially proposed
- 5 open proposals (not confirmed by students)
- 8 proposals with no final decision (7 of them with no response of the company about the proposal)

Evaluating placements

- Evaluation by VALS team based on
 - Analysis of questionnaires filled by students previous months (students not necessarily involved later in placements)
 - Assessment done by students, supervisors and mentors (questionnaires available in the collaboration platform next days)
 - Personnel interviews with the different stakeholders involved (open interviews, USAL will provide their initial schema for performing interviews)

Placements assessment by participants

- Each institution will contact with the students, supervisors and mentors, providing them the questionnaires (one kind for each stakeholder)
- The questionnaires will be available on Google Forms, the links for questionnaires will be posted on <http://polis.grial.eu>
- If any partner want to have access to results (for this or other questionnaires) will request access to USAL.

Further tasks

- Placements should be finalized (most of them at least). Each institution will track the status of their placements
- Placements must be assessed by the stakeholders involved following the questionnaires provided by USAL
- The partners will analyse the placements
